Why I love being a stirrer, by Prince Charles

4th February 2010 - 'I was accused once of being the enemy of the Enlightenment,' Charles remarked yesterday. 'I felt rather proud. I thought hang on a moment, the Enlightenment started over 200 years ago. It might be time to think again and review it and question whether it is really effective in today's conditions, faced as we are with huge challenges all over the world.'

The Case FOR Homeopathy - Historical & Scientific Evidence

5th February 2010

Physician-homeopath acquitted after a three year process

In December last year Polish homeopathic doctor Jan Baranowski, accused of breaching the Code of Ethics, cleared his name after three year trial in the Physicians Court. The case against him was brought by the head of the Chief Medical Board (or Chamber) in Poland, who believes homeopathy is unscientific and for a doctor to use "unproven methods" is unethical. He called for dr Baranowski's licence to be revoked. The court found no ground for such action. Only doctors could attend the trial. Patients came in large groups to support dr Baranowski. The news made it to all the local and national media.

Fewster Robert Horner 1803 – 1863 was a virulent sceptic of homeopathy who voted against homeopathy in the infamous Brighton resolutions of 1851, and who was solely responsible for suppressing the statistics presented by the London Homeopathic Hospital during the cholera epidemic of 1854. Horner nevertheless converted to homeopathy in 1857 after he was asked to investigate homeopathy, and from that time until his death, he was a staunch adherent and practitioner of the new system.

Ralph Barnes Grindrod 1811 – 1883 was a British orthodox physician who, though proclaiming his absolute antagonism towards homeopathy, nevertheless worked alongside the homeopaths in the Malvern Hydrotherapy Establishment, where he closely observed the work of James Manby Gully and set out to expose the many allopathic practitioners who 'secretly' came to the spa for homeopathic treatment
