15 Year Study in Paris Proves Homeopathy 1849 – 1864

Comparative evaluation of homeopathy and allopathy within the Parisian hospital system, 1849–1851 by Michael Dean, Department of Health Sciences, University of York, © 2010 Royal Society of Medicine.

Over a 15 year period and involving many thousands of patients, Jean Paul Tessier conducted an open trial comparing homeopathy with allopathy in the Sainte Marguerite Hospital, the Beaujon Hospital and the Enfants Malades Hospital, which ultimately proved so clearly in favour of homeopathy, it spread rapidly throughout Europe.

Hippocrates Spinning in His Grave

Ask yourself, what's wrong with a medical community that doesn't want to suggest a cure but rather make you nothing less than a junkie? Addicted and dependant on a drug. And here's the best part to come full circle to my initial statement that doctors shouldn't be allowed to take the Hippocratic Oath. Those medicines they prescribe. You pick the medication, diabetes, osteoporosis, cholesterol or blood pressure – some of the more popular ones – all have side effects that can be categorized as “doing harm”.

Julia Sawalha's holiday heaven and hell 07 Jan 2010

What do you always take with you? My homeopathic kit; it's got 36 homeopathic remedies that have rescued me from food poisoning and infection many a time. I don't get inoculations or take anti-malaria tablets when I go abroad, I take the homeopathic alternative, called "nosodes", and I'm the only one who never goes down with anything.

There's An Elephant In Our Pajamas

December 23, 2009. Hello skeptics and science buffs everywhere! There is an elephant that you are ignoring while you attempt to shoot the mice. The elephant, the giant pharmaceutical juggernaut, started the whole anti-homeopathy campaign (Tracy Brown a pharmaceutical company public relations person heads Sense about Science) and quite effectively has given you a feeling that you are doing it by yourself.

Citing claims they had seen on a website belonging to Rima Laibow and Albert Stubblebine, they expressed concern that the use of vitamins and other natural health therapies would be prohibited worldwide after that date. http://www4.dr-rath-foundation.org/THE_FOUNDATION/Events/codex-agentsofdisinformation.html break 8th January 2009 A growing number of people are turning to complementary and alternative medicine (CAM) for disorders they feel cannot be treated with conventional therapy. This number tops the 100 million mark in the EU alone. However, the challenge faced by CAM practitioners is the lack of funding and scientific cooperation that hampers this area of medicine. Enter the EU-funded CAMbrella project that is determined to solve this problem. With EUR 1.5 million in support under the 'Health' Theme of the Seventh Framework Programme (FP7), CAMbrella kick-starts on 1 January 2010.
